8. a. Provide a suitable title and make a notes for the following paragraph in any format

Conversation is indeed the most easily teachable of all arts. All you need to do in order to become a good conversationalist is to find a subject that interests you and your listeners. There are, for example, numberless hobbies to talk about. But the important thing is that you must talk about other fellow's hobby rather than yours'. Talk to your friends about the things that interest them, and you will get a reputation for good fellowship, and a brilliant mind. There is nothing that pleases people so much as your interest in their interest. 07

It is just as important to know what subjects to avoid and what subjects to select for good conversation. If you don't want to be set down as a bore, be careful to avoid certain unpleasant subjects. Avoid talking about yourself, unless you are asked to do so. People are interested in their own problems not in yours.\

To be a good conversationalist you must know not only what to say, but how also to say it. Be mentally quick and witty. Finally, try to avoid mannerism in your conversation. Don't click your tongue, or roll your eyes or use your hands excessively as you speak.

b. Summarize the following:

1. Some murmur, when the sky is clear
   And wholly bright view,
   If one small speck of dark appear
   In their great heaven of blue
   And some with thankful love are filled 07
   If but one streak of light
   One ray of God's good mercy, gild
   The darkness of their night
